Tuesday's Messenger had this:
"The Republican scheme to got the name of G. W. Southall on the ballot as a People's party candidate for congress in the Second district has failed to pan out. Realizing the hopeless case of E. T. Franks to sit in the next congress, in view of the complete fusion between the Democrate and Populists, A. C. Briggs and other Republicans hatched up a scheme to Republicans hatched up a scheme to put the name of Southall on the ballot as the Poeple's party candidate, and thus divide the populist vote with Dr. Clardy.

A. C. Briggs, printer of the Franks organ, yesterday presented a petition signed by over 400 voters of the Sec-ond district to J. T. Griffith, the counorgan, yesterday presented a petition signed by over 400 voters of the Second district to J. T. Griffith, the county cieck, requesting him to put Southall's name on the official ballot as the People's party candidate for congress. There was not a dozen of the signers there was not a dozen of the signers. There was not a dozen of the signers because the control of the signers of the more prominent ones being Ben Driver, W. W. Chambers, Dr. J. Glain, H. E. McCain, Buok Morten, A. Ames, G. W. Cruther, J. K. Hunter, Chas. J. Werrer, Lawson Reno, C. E. Van Rennsselaer, Harry Green, E. A. Watts, (col.), Dr. J. M. The court overruled the general de-murrer to the answer, but reserved his ruling on the special denurrer. He held that Griffiin had a legal right to refuse to file the petition, and on a denial of the allegations of Southall's petition proof would be re-quired. This virtually settled the case and Mr. Southall's name will not grace the ballot this time, for before the case can be called for trial and proof taken by Southall and his Re-publican allies, Dr. Clardy will have already begun his term of congress, to which he will be elected in No-rember. The court overruled the general de-currer to the answer, but reserved

A Blow at National Integrity.

By the demonectiation of silver in 1873, done, as I believe, in the dark by stealth, without the desire of the people and against their present welfare and their fature prosperity, a blow was struck at the integrity of the United States, under which it has recied and staggered for the last 23 years. In apite of continued discussion in the congress of the United States, in spite of contended discussions of the restoration of the congress of the United States, in spite of contended present the spite of the property of the spite of the property of the spite of the property of the spite of all true principles of monetary science, this economic evil has been persisted in; and now, more than 20 years after the great wrong against the people of the United States was wrought, it is sought to take models related the base of the contended of t and his newspaper were conspicuous silver advocates. Mr. Watterson's thorough understanding of the money question is evidenced by a leading editorial in his paper on August 10, 1886, in which he laid down the following

seven propositions:

In which he man cover as seven propositions:

"I. That the demonetization of silver, which has prevailed for some years up to this writing, both in the United States and Europe, has had the effect of advancing the value of gold about 40 per by depressing the value of all other property to that extent.

"3. That about 40 per cent, of the property and producing resources of the propie have thus been transferred to a comparatively small class of men, whose stock in trade is gold invest-whose stock in trude is gous assuments.

"4. That in the exact proportion as gold has risen, the burden of debt and taxation has increased; and that in proportion as property and labor have declined, the capacity of the people to pay.

"5. That the salver discount is creating a bonus of more than 30 per cent, favor of the farm productions of both India and Asla, which to that extent cheapens the wheat, cotton and various other productions of the United States.

"6. That these lamentable copultions have been produced by anti-silver leg-islation.

"7. That they can be undone and prosperity be restored by pro-silver leg-islation."

The Courier-Journal then proceeded to challenge the metropolitan press to controvert its propositions, and de-

Will protection alone bring is back tool times? The duties utfor the Wilse bill are lower in many instances than under the McKillery bill, and this leads many to believe that it is beary importations that has stopped the factories. And yes the United States bureau of statistics shows that importations are less under the Wilson bill than they were under the McKjelney act. The imports into the United States for he year ending June 30th, 1898 amounted to $808,100,022, which was larger than any year before or after-tast year they were over $100,000 less.

It is surprising how little there was of music in the presidential campaign of '56, when Buchanan was elected over Freumont and Daylot and Millard Filmore. Of the three songs for Freumont one was owritten to the "Marseillaise," and was quite a pretentious effort, the achorus closing with this line: "Free Speech, Free Press, Free Soil, Free Men, Fremont and Victory." Another was set to "Auld Lang Syne," and another to the tune of "Dandy Jim of Caroline," with the line: "Tree Speech, Free Kansas and Fremont." The democrats were satisfied with some cheap verses set to "Walt for the Wagon," and a song, making a direct bid for the Irish vote, to the tune of "Nora Cretias."

more at stake than the black coat.
There can, at any rate, be little

that of the black waistcoat.
Whether the two have been lovely

We mean no disrespect to the vest in describing it as a parasite of the coat. It is a humble an attachment which is rarely broken save for a short period during the summer months.

The trousers, it is true, are connected with the two upper garments by no such feudal tie, but

His War Cry Because His Baggags Was inspected.

An experience with the officials of the Paris octroi, which M. Zola had on returning recently from his country place to Paris, has given him the occasion to regade the public with some details concerning his private life as well as a realistic pictupe of the annoyances to which persons living in the suburbs are subjected daily when they go to town. It seems strange that it should be the first time that the has noticed an inconvenience of the country passenger or or and has to submit to His call for a revolution on account of his broken pickle jar, its the most charming piece of Zolaism to which we have been treated for some time. Here is the letter as it appears in Le Figaro:

"This is the adventure that happened to me yesterday morning at the St. Lazare railroad station with an official of the octroi. My wife and I were returning to Paris from Medan, having for our baggage a little box fastened with nails, a basket of vegetables, and two trunks. In the little box were three jars of gherkins, home-made pickles. While I go to secure a cab, my wife declares the three jars of pickles, but the official insists on seeing them, having doubtless some suspicion as to the quality of the vinegar. Our servant is obliged to hunt for a chisel, for the box, as I have said, is fastened with mails, a Have said, is fastened with mails, When I return I am obliged to main from the official process of the process of the card of the box, as I have said, is fastened with mails, When I return I am obliged to my amazement to look on while this goes on the card of the process of the card of the card

"I will admit that I got angry. What? I have lived in Medan for 18 years. I am perfectly well known at the St. Lazare station, my station, and this is the insult I receive on returning to Paris with my own vegetables and my own pickles. Everything is earnined, everything is dirthed, as if I were suspected of the blackest fraud, and that after I had declared my pickles, on which I pad 36 centimes, for which I have the receipt, for it was a matter of six cents, it was to got six cents that our linen was turned topsy turry and all our little private domestic articles were passel around by all sorts of black paws. These pioneers of dress reform have entrely discarded the black coat, preferring one of a gayer color, with moticeably elongated tails, and the freedom with which they indulge their taste in checks and stripes may almost be said to border upon license. Yet the effect, even with the addition of an open shirt collar face and a banjo, cannot be described as entirely picturesque. London Telegraph.

CHILDREN'S QUESTIONING.

The Advantages of Mutual Questioning on the Part of Pupils.

The doctrine of opportunity has not been preached enough, and the wonderful constitution of the mind and its power to develop itself by its own energies when fully aroused have been so often and so unjustly claimed as the direct results of systematic or dogmatic instruction that the truth, when held upto view, may not be recognized and acknowledged. There having been no conversation or suggestions concerning the matter, the pupils who averaged its years of ago were asked to give their disas of the advantages of questioning each other, and they expressed time, because if our teacher is out of the same ago, and understand the same
